

Safely Resuming Operations

American Cruise Lines is committed to the safety of our guests, crew, and community partners. We have formulated these Operating Protocols by working with local, state, and federal officials. While they cannot eliminate risk, they are designed to mitigate it and enhance safety onboard.

Cruises are currently scheduled to resume in March 2021 at a reduced capacity. We are regularly communicating with all guests to provide updates as new information becomes available. If a cruise is unable to operate, booked guests will have the option to receive a refund of the amounts paid or to be issued Cruise Vouchers, which can be used towards a future cruise. For reservations using Cruise Vouchers, please click here.

American Cruise Lines will require a negative COVID-19 test result for all guests and crew members boarding its ships. This includes the requirement for guests to test on their own prior to traveling to the ship. A certified Medical Officer will be aboard each ship to conduct a brief pre-boarding health screening of each guest. In addition, masks are to be worn during the cruise in compliance with the Executive Order on Promoting COVID-19 Safety in Domestic and International Travel.

We look forward to being back on the water with you. Please contact a Cruise Specialist at 1-800-460-4518 with any questions.

Preparing to Travel and Boarding

Ship Technology and Specifications

Medical Practices

Shoreside Operating Procedures

The Covid-19 Operating Protocol is subject to review and change at any time. As the situation evolves, operating practices must be adapted; this includes the potential for cruise suspension. These practices do not eliminate the risk. Rather, they are designed to reduce risk and slow the spread of illness by removing known transmission sources, increasing awareness, and speeding response time.